Market Commentary and Outlook

Global economic growth slowed during the first half of 2023, as monetary tightening policies enacted by central banks to reduce high rates of inflation began to take effect. Manufacturing output has been contracting in most advanced economies, while retail sales have been weak, as have consumer and business confidence levels. On the other hand, employment data has been too strong.

The Reserve Bank of Australia increased interest rates by a further 0.25% in June, bringing the 'cash rate' to 4.1% and the cumulative increase this year to 1.0%, in line with actions taken by the US Federal Reserve. In Australia, the rate of inflation has moderated from a peak of 8.4% in December 2022 to the most recent measure of 5.6% in May.

Global equity markets had a strong month in June. The broad US market (S&P 500 index) gained 6.5% amid optimism that interest rates may be approaching a peak. Economic data, whilst indicating a slowing economy, has also been slightly better than forecast. The Australian market (ASX 200 index) rose 1.8% for the month. Year to date, developed market equities have performed well, with a 15.9% gain for the US market, a 4.5% rise for the Australian market and strong gains across most of Europe as well as Japan. Property stocks rose by 3.9% for the first half of the year, and bonds have been relatively flat.

Looking ahead, elevated geopolitical risks, alongside higher interest rates and slower economic growth this year, represent potential headwinds for markets. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) recently made a small downgrade to its economic forecasts, with global growth now expected to be 2.8% in 2023. The IMF expects growth rates to remain slightly below long-term trend levels for some time. However, in broad terms, share markets continue to appear more attractive than most other investment opportunities.

Fund Commentary

The Fund underperformed the benchmark in June, with a return of -0.2%, compared to the benchmark return of 0.2%. Over the year to the end of June, the Fund returned 4.9%.

Over the course of the month, International and Australian shares recorded gains, listed property was flat, and bonds generated a negative return.

The Fund currently has a small overweight to Australian and International equities, as relatively attractive valuations are offset by rising interest rates and a slowing economy. The weighting towards bonds has increased in recent months, with a preference for shorter-term Australian bonds over international bonds.

In the Morningstar Multisector Moderate Category, the Fiducian Capital Stable Fund returns were ranked 29th out of 107 funds over one year, 24th out of 94 funds over five years, and 8th out of 84 funds over the ten year period to 30 June 2023.
